Important information The templates supplied here are in XLS format, so they can be used in any program that can open the file type. In order to use them you need to make sure that the Excel application is the default XLS handler. The worksheets are designed in a way so they can be personalized, so they can be assigned to your own company and the information can be modified to your needs. Place an order, customizing the invoice as you wish. Once you have made the payment, the template will be sent to you by email with the instructions for customizing it to suit your needs. Thus, you can modify everything within the worksheet and add your own data to make the invoice to suit your needs. All you need to do is to double-click on the template, open the properties window and make the necessary changes. In case you want to make sure you are doing things right, you should test how the document looks like in the print preview mode. Keep in mind that some changes you make will not be visible in the preview window. However, this is not a problem since the print preview will be automatically updated once you print the file. Confirm the changes you made and print the invoice. All you need to do now is to print the document and send it to the person who will pay the bill. Once the payment is confirmed, you can proceed with the clean up of the template. There is a possibility that some of your changes may not be saved and the program will keep the default values as it appears. You should get used to it since it cannot be avoided. If you really want to keep the changes, you should lock the template again. REVIEWS:

Free Business Letter Templates By Marti Miserocchi By Marti Miserocchi A work letter is a document that is addressed to a client or customer and that offers information about a specific subject. It contains the details needed to complete the business that was being discussed. A company letter may be used as an introduction to a proposal or sales offer, if it is a proposal, while if the letter is sent to a customer, it is expected to be completely business-like and may be used as a general introduction to the company's products or services. In the case of a proposal letter, the subject is defined and the body of the letter is used to introduce the details about the product or service that is being offered and the reasons why the client should choose to buy. The body of a letter may be used to communicate certain information about the client, including the name of the company, the product or service that is being offered, what the client should buy, how much the service or product will cost, the kind of benefits the client will receive, the services provided by the company, as well as the reasons why the client should buy. A work letter is generally a complete product and it is not expected to be sent without being finalized. With the advent of word-processing programs, they have become much easier to create and send, so the demand for them has been growing among companies. A work letter usually consists of four parts and they are introduced in this order: the salutation, the subject, the body and the signature. The salutation introduces the sender and the recipient of the letter and is usually followed by the sender's name, the name of the recipient and the date. The salutation may be one of the following: Dear (or Dear Sir or Madam), Dear (or Dear Sir or Madam), Dear (or Dear Sir or Madam), Mr, Ms, Mrs, or Ms. It is also possible to use a more informal salutation, such as Hey, Hi, or Hello. The salutation can be followed by the sender's name and a comma. How to Create Excel Invoices By Brian Taylor By Brian Taylor When you
