What's New in the DivX Subtitle Displayer?

The DivX Subtitle Displayer is an easy-to-use application that allows users to synchronize subtitles to any video they are playing. It is able to display multiple subtitle files, and the only condition for the application to work as expected is for the subtitles to be in the same folder as the video. The tool even supports SRT files, but is not particularly advanced. It also includes an 'Auto Load Subtitle' option which helps in automatically loading a subtitle file to a video. If the chosen video has a subtitle available in the same folder, the application will load it for the user. This is a simple operation, but it can be perfected by tuning the settings. However, users can always add subtitles manually, through the application's interfaces. Besides a custom feel, the DivX Subtitle Displayer is easy to use and requires less adjustments. It is a simple application, but one which can get the job done in cases where users need to synchronize subtitles to any video, instead of relying on proprietary codecs.
