MACROs will be setup to capture selected keywords for importing into the database. We can setup special keys for "International/Language" and "Trending". These keys can be set for each movie. I tried the keywords in the mdb.dat file, but all of the keywords seem to be in the top level database. I want to create a new database file to make these keywords searchable, is there a way to do that. I have tried to use the cmd interface and use the mdbadd -n command, but the -n option is missing. A: The help file says: -n New database Name of the database to create. If -n is not specified, the current database is created. If the current database already exists, a warning is generated and the existing database is used. So you are allowed to create a database file but the current database must be first created. This could be done with the mdbadd -d flag. Striatal and cerebral monoaminergic function in subchronic haloperidol treated rats. The activity of monoaminergic systems was assessed in the rat brain and its caudate nucleus and nucleus accumbens, after 10 days treatment with haloperidol, a dopamine receptor antagonist. The animals were divided into three groups. One of them received daily i.p. injections of haloperidol 2 mg/kg (Hal 2), the second was treated with haloperidol 5 mg/kg (Hal 5) and the control group received saline (Sal). After 10 days of treatment, the concentration of dopamine (DA) in the basal ganglia was decreased, although no significant differences were found in the striatal DA turnover. The release of DA in the striatum and nucleus accumbens was not modified. However, the basal content of homovanillic acid (HVA) was increased in both structures of the haloperidol treated animals, and the striatal turnover of this amino acid was decreased in both the Hal 5 group and in the animals treated with haloperidol 2 mg/kg. On the other hand, there were no changes in the concentration of noradrenaline (NA) in the caudate nucleus and nucleus accumbens. The uptake of DA and NA by striatal synaptosomes was significantly diminished in Hal 2 and Hal 5 groups 1d6a3396d6
