UUUUUUUUUU. 10. I haven't tried using this one though.Q: How to order a result set by the result of another row? I have a SQL Server 2005 database that has two tables. One is a master table, the other is a lookup table. The master table records the name of a product and the price of that product. The lookup table records the part of the product that makes it to the table and what price it is. I have two queries that do basically the same thing and they are dependent on each other. They look like this `SELECT DISTINCT * FROM Tables.tblProducts LEFT JOIN Tables.tblPricings ON tblPricings.id = tblProducts.id WHERE id IN (150,150, 151,151,151,154,154,154,154,154,15`
